

Mark Barnes, J.D., LL.M.,
Proskauer Rose LLP,
New York, NY

Mark Barnes is a partner in the health care practice of Proskauer Rose LLP's New York office, where he represents academic medical centers, physicians, and public health agencies in matters related to regulatory compliance, research practices, reimbursement, quality of care, and Medicaid reform. He came to Proskauer from government service, first as AIDS policy director for the New York State Department of Health, and then as associate commissioner for medical and legal policy at the New York City Department of Health, where he was responsible in 1992 and 1993 for crafting new regulatory standards relating to tuberculosis control. Mr. Barnes served in 1995-96 as the executive director of the AIDS Action Council in Washington, and has taught law at a number of law schools in the New York area, including Columbia and NYU. He now serves as an executive committee member of Doctors of the World, an international health services relief agency, and as Chair of the Committee on Health Care Providers for the New York State Bar Association. He is a graduate of Yale Law School (J.D., 1984) and Columbia Law School (LL.M., 1990)
